The GUEST LIST

by

Lucy Foley

Lucy Foley was born in 1986 and is a British/Irish author. She attended college at Durham University and University College London where she studied English literature. She worked for a number of years as a fiction editor before publishing her first historical novel in 2015. She is now writing mysteries. She has won a Goodreads Choice Award for Best Mystery/Thriller in 2020 for The Guest List.

The Guest List is a mystery/thriller set on an island off the coast of West Ireland where a wedding is to take place. A murder occurs the night before the wedding. Several of the groom's old buddies from boarding school are attending. They all seem to have secrets. How do these secrets affect the wedding and its participants?

There is constant intrigue with this story. A storm is raging, the wind is howling, and the attendees are stuck with minimal internet!!! So many secrets must be revealed to solve the murder. What exactly happened at the boarding school and how is it affecting the current story? Lucy Foley does a great job of pulling together the individual stories of the characters and provides a fun read for the reader.
